HORIZONTAL COOPERATION
Best Practices for the Demand Reduction

Traineeship in Santiago de Chile, March 5-11, 2005

María Teresa Chadwick Piñera, Executive Secretary, CONACE
XXXVII Period of CICAD/OAS Sessions
Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic

• In the context of the OAS, this implies the transfer of knowledge and the exchange of information and experiences among States.
• The OAS General Assembly reiterated the importance of cooperation, identified it as a priority (AG/Res. 857, 1987) and outlined the support that States should provide in this ambit.
• There have been successful experiences with horizontal cooperation in the region in other areas (such as agriculture).
Traineeship IN CHILE

- During the Sixth Meeting of Experts on Reducing Demand (Buenos Aires, September, 2004) participants proposed that an traineeship on “Best Practices for Reducing Demand” be implemented as an initial CICAD/OAS experience with horizontal cooperation.

- CONACE, the representative of the Chilean government at said event, offered to organize the program.

Traineeship in Chile, March, 2005
MAIN RESULTS (4)
Specific Challenges Related to Prevention in the Educational Area

- To work with the agencies that are responsible for developing drug policies in order to increase their ability to encourage Ministries of Education to take on a more active role in this area.
- To recognize that the countries’ diverse realities demand universal, national, regional and local or specific strategies.
- To improve the evaluation systems for programs that have very long term results.

Traineeship in Chile, March, 2005

MAIN RESULTS (5)
Methodological Challenges

- The exchange of methodologies and materials and validation of that data in participating countries.
- The joint implementation of innovative strategies.
- The confirmation of the usefulness of evaluation systems in terms of calling attention to drug phenomena in the region.

Traineeship in Chile, March, 2005
MAIN RESULTS (6)
Challenges to Horizontal Cooperation
In the words of the participants

- To generate an ongoing cooperation program in the area of demand reduction that allows for:
  - The implementation of technical advising activities and consultancies that include visits by experts.
  - Area-specific training and education efforts designed to strengthen programs at the regional level (through traineeships or seminar-workshops).

- To use the experience that has been accumulated in specific ambits in order to improve the quality of the programs (“avoid making the same mistake twice,” applying successful programs in countries with similar characteristics).

Traineeship in Chile, March, 2005

MAIN RESULTS (2)
In the words of the participants

Horizontal Cooperation is positive because:

- It strengthens countries’ efforts and resources.
- It aids in the search for joint solutions to shared problems.
- It is an expression of the political will to provide technical support to others and to recognize difficulties.
