Lessons Learned

(1)

• Intervention centers: The person as a subject that has full active rights with ties and a relationship with society.

• The State as a social provider, guaranteeing the access to rights and opportunities, expanding and restoring them when these are violated.

• Going through the country, respecting the different realities.

• The community, the surrounding environment and the family are essential factors for social action.
Lessons Learned

• Public Policy that strengthens community participation and organization for the reconstruction of social ties

• Progressing towards social inclusion and integration, leaving behind exclusion and isolation

• Go beyond the health point of view: The focus should be the person, the community, its relationships, its well being as well as social inclusion.

• Creating a path for social inclusion with each other
